Mulloy and Frederick Corbett of the Hartford branch of the society and Rev. Thomas J. Gasson, formerly president of Boston colege.

Thomas J. Mulloy, the president of the Hartford branch was the first speaker. He said in part: It is absolutely necessary for every Irishman to stand benind Ireland in this, the most critical period of her long fight for freedom. He must do this regardless of whether it conflicts with his business or his politics. The third speaker was Rev. T. J. Gasson, former president of Boston university. He spoke of the great economic wealth of Ireland. He said that it was necessary to educate the American people on this point as a question of justics. It was necessary to create a public opinion in order that the seed planted by that most wonderful of all men, Daniel O'Connor may bear fruit.

Rev. J. J. Suillivan said that he was there to collect the membership fees of all who wished to join and urged all to do so as the meney wes necessary to fight the English propagands in this country.

Sunday afternoon at Recreation park the Willimantic team won out in a closely contested game from the Kerr Mills team of Fail River, by a score of 8 to 1. The game was a pitchers' battle from seart to finish, with Archie Hamel having a slight edge on Bisallion. Only seven hits were made by the two teams but each managed to get into the error coloumn seven times and in most cases the misplays were responsible for runs. The score:
